Dream Of Fair To Middling
Dream of Fair to Middling Women is Samuel Beckett's first novel. Written in English "in a matter of weeks" in 1932 when Beckett was only 26 and living in Paris, the clearly autobiographical novel was rejected by publishers and shelved by the author. The novel was eventually published in 1992, three years after the author's death.

Dream of Fair to Middling Women - Wikipedia
Dream of Fair to Middling Women is a monstrosously ambitious and exuberantly experimental novel, it is so extravagantly intricate that it literally turns into a cultural and lexical conundrum. Considering James Joyce's greatest influence on the book, it may easily be titled as A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Madman. Every madman needs one's own mad cosmology...
